The International College of Cranio-Mandibular Orthopedics

PREAMBLE: The International College of Cranio-Mandibular Orthopedics is a society of health care professionals with a common interest in the etiologic role of orthopedic deformities as related to the various symptoms of head and neck pain and dysfunction.

OBJECTIVES: The primary objective of the College is the alleviation of the widespread human suffering of those afflicted with the varied symptomatology of head and neck pain and dysfunction.

To this end the members of the College aim to apply and maintain the highest level of scientific integrity and objectivity in their clinical practice and in research for the resolution of these problems.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR ASSOCIATE MEMBERSHIP: Associate membership is open to professionals who have an interest in and who are actively involved in assisting with the management of craniomandibular disorders. Associate members must be qualified and currently licensed or certified in their respective field of expertise.

Associate members may attend all meetings and educational presentations of the College, but, they shall have no voting rights, nor may they hold any office that is in line for succession or election to Section President or International President.

Associate members may not qualify for Fellowship or Mastership level of membership in ICCMO

Advantages of Membership in ICCMO

Provides the prestige of membership in an International College and an opportunity to share and increase your knowledge and understanding of craniomandibular disorders.

Regional and international meetings provide an opportunity for personal contact and interaction with outstanding internationally known researchers and clinicians.
